The film mimics the comic-book visuals, with an interesting use of colors and. In the EU, most Finnish families own a car. But in neighbouring Russia, car ownership is the exception rather than the rule. Instead, vast swaths of the country are covered in highways, parks and recreational facilities. Sweden also has a drive for environmentally friendly motoring, but thanks to its curvy roads and compact cities, car ownership in the Nordic nation has declined by half since the 1950s. The U.K., once the object of the great automotive experiment, now has a quarter of a million electric vehicles on the road. And China has a building boom, prompting auto manufacturers to invest $300 billion in new manufacturing facilities. But the biggest, and most profitable, market of all is the US. America has long been the world's biggest car market, and its cumulative sales to date have reached 370 million, or some 50% of global volume. But the current economic situation has the American auto industry on the ropes. Sales are down, there are high unemployment rates and business has slumped. 6d1f23a050
