My application goes by the name "Jetherian" if you'd like to check it out. It is currently in its testing mode. Here's a link to the application page if you would like to take a look. Anyway, this application is currently in its testing phase and does not actually make any money. It was submitted to get some research done though. I am wondering, since this application was created for academic purposes, would it be okay for us to delete any posts, comments, or events we would like? Would it be kosher to then un-delete them? For example, take a look at this image. Or maybe the user should be allowed to delete comments in the comments section. But then if they did delete all of them...what would happen? Any feedback is much appreciated. A: If you don't make money off the app, then I see no problem in deleting or not deleting. It's just up to the person who created the app (and that's not you) and it's up to them if they can delete posts or not. Q:

Can there be more than one projection in SF? The title pretty much explains it. I have a data set that is multi-dimensional, lets say it is 5 fields, and the first dimension consists of 20 values, then the second dimension consists of 9 values, and then there are 9 values in the 3rd dimension and so on. I want 6d1f23a050
