"Quick" macro recorder. All keys pressed on the keyboard are recorded, including the released ones. It can even work on locked keyboard. When you press "Record", it will show you the macros, and you can stop them at any time. When you press "Stop", the macros are automatically saved to the current recording file, and a dialog box with the title "You are recording a keyboard macro right now..." will appear. If you click on OK, the macros will be saved. Just as an overview: The program will automatically call the Ctrl+Alt+Del hotkey, and save the macros to a file. When you are ready to use the macros, press the Hotkey, you will see the hotkey box appear. There are four buttons on it: "Record" (Ctrl+Alt+C), "Stop" (Ctrl+Alt+S), "Play" (Ctrl+Alt+P), "Preview" (Ctrl+Alt+P). Each macro will be saved as a separate recording file. There are some things you can do with the macros: - You can rename them by right clicking on the file name and selecting "Rename". - You can modify the order of the macro by drag-n-dropping them on top of each other. - You can delete the last one from the list. - You can add them as frequently used, just right click on the last one and select "Add frequently used macro...". - You can press Hotkey, to load the last hotkey. - You can press Hotkey, to play the macros. You can save the files as an ascii file, a wav file, a wmv file, or you can directly save them to the computer as a list of integers. To use the hotkeys, right click on the file name of the macro you want to use. Click on "Rename", "Load Hotkey", "Add frequently used macro...", "Add frequently used macros...", "Add frequently used macro...", "Rename", "Rename", "Rename", "Rename" and so on.
