so, the gun control side clearly had the stronger side. they had all of the money and the organizations; the nra and the american civil liberty union. but when you look at the organizations, the nra is like a professional sports team. they have millions of members, they have huge staffs, and they have lots of money. and the other side is just regular families, moms, dads and kids. and how were those people doing? they were doing well enough that they could afford to invest money in legal representation, but they werent as well organized or on the ground as the nra. i mean, the gun control side had organizations. they had the national stunt double association and they had lots of organizations, but they werent as well organised or as well connected as the nra. so, if i wanted to find out the real weakness on the gun control side, i was going to have to visit some mom and dad gun control groups and talk to some of them. so, i started doing that. and, i spent a lot of time in gun owners groups. you know, its fun to just walk around with a camera and talk to people about their fears, their knowledge and their vision. its not like i just wandered around and started talking to people, though. a lot of the time i met people at gun shows. they were just, like me, fellow victims of the keene murder. i would get up early in the morning and hang around the nra booth at these gun shows. and then, i would meet other gun control advocates as well as people who werent really sure of what side they stood on. i would start talking to people, and they would start talking to me and say, well, we came here to this gun show because we heard what happened to those people in keene and were interested in what they were doing.

the original release of the tool was made available as a private project by the threat actors as part of a larger global operation. in order to keep the vulnerability under control, the authors released it under the gplv2, allowing the original developer to modify and distribute it as he wished. as a result, the tool has gained a wide distribution base, which was further enhanced when the authors released a version available for free, as well as a version with a full cracked version included. it was not until a few months ago that the developers of drevitalize released a version of the tool available for download on their web page, as well as other repositories, that was updated to version 2.42, which adds the functionality of a pgp signature to the binary. due to the low cost of a pgp signature, it is not included in the main binary of drevitalize light version 2.42. this is a one-time cost. due to the poor results obtained in the initial analysis of the binary, we cannot say if the developers are somehow related to the original developers of drevitalize or if they are a completely different group. however, it is clear that the new version of the tool was not publicly available at the time the original one was released, and the only indication that the tool is still in use is the fact that it has been put into the public dns cache of the tor project. the developers responsible for the crack version of drevitalize light are not publicly known. according to the website hosting the crack, the authors of the crack are "crikey" and "crackerz" from russia. the original developer of the tool is "rsa security" and the original project is "revitalize-dex". 5ec8ef588b
