WJZHD of "T.V People"™ speaks to New York consumers on how they use their new digital. Congressional demand for more transparency in the health-care system: where do we stand? In his 1996 State of the Union Address, President Clinton proposed reforming the health care system and championed transparency as a key part of the plan. Since this proposal, Congress has made 13 of the 20 transparency and efficiency reforms in the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010. The current climate, however, has spawned a new round of debate on whether the changes promised in the original proposal have been met. In particular, some contend that the provisions of the law designed to demonstrate transparency have been thwarted. Moreover, members of Congress have promised to review the performance of the act. This is a unique time in the history of health-care reform, with members of Congress questioning the performance of the legislation they passed. Q: Java.net.SocketException: Connection reset I'm trying to write a client program that would connect to a remote web server and query its database every time it launches. My server is running, and as I'm writing this, I have the socket listening in the server and the client (the one that would connect to the server) already written. The problem is, whenever I try to run it, I get this error: java.net.SocketException: Connection reset Here is my code for the server:

public class Server { public static void main(String[] args) { ServerSocket serverSocket; try { serverSocket = new ServerSocket(SERVERPORT); } catch (IOException e) { System.out.println(e
