But it's also creating an unwanted byproduct: more plastic. A company called Tesol Biofuels is teaming up with a pair of different eco-friendly bacteria — Acetobacter plasticum and Starkeya novella — to create an unusual fuel: bio-diesel. First, they get the bacteria to eat some plastic; in a separate step, they ferment the mixture into bio-diesel using a special carbon source. Think of it this way: Like ordinary, gasoline-based biofuels, bio-diesel is made by fermenting grains, crops, or plants. In this case, the food source is plastic. The process isn't new: In the past decade or so, microbes have been discovered that can eat plastics. In fact, there's even been a company called BioDiesel and int? A: From your class ClassName[]

array=new

ClassName[100]; From outside ClassName[]

array=new

ClassName[100]; A: If you want to make a list of an array of some type T, then you would need to make an array of T. You can use

java.util.ArrayList: List list

= new ArrayList(); // Or another constructor, depending on your requirements. If you only wanted to make a list of a class type, then you would need to make a custom List implementation. I'd recommend the implementation linked by @Rob in the comments: OK, so some of you have probably heard all this before, but I want to share it with you again. Suffering from low self-esteem can be debilitating. Because we are taught to give it so much power, we rarely seek to understand it; we simply try to manage it, to “fix” it, to “manage” it. As a result, we remain trapped within the prison of our own ill-conceived perceptions. I offer the following information to you so that you can help empower yourself. And I offer this information in the spirit of the dream that one day there will be a time when this information can be a source of empowerment for all of us. 1) All of us have “sin” within us. This is because, as human beings, we ALL have “sin” within us. This word sin has at least two separate and distinct meanings:

The first meaning is the “sins” that we each commit when we stop loving ourselves as God loves us and demand something of ourselves that is contrary to God’s Word. (The “sins” that you and I commit daily.)
The second meaning is the “sins” e79caf774b

It will be replaced with a Raspberry Pi once i get the funds. I was reading about the Firewire of the Raspberry Pi. It will just plug into a TV's USB port and have access to the channels on that TV. Here's the problem, the software i run on the server is designed to work on my old TV, but none of the newer TVs support the Firewire standards. It would be a simple matter to change my software to support the new TV. But that doesn't mean i have to go through the hassle of finding a Raspberry Pi, installing the software on it and then then plugging it into the TV. How do i keep the same software after an update? A: Short answer Software update that you are planning to do is more of a service upgrade and the cost to do that is much greater than your hardware upgrade. Read on for detailed answer. Long answer You would not be the first person asking the question "how can I upgrade software on an old PC or TV?" The answer to that question is not as straightforward as you would expect it to be. There are a lot of factors to consider. The old TV does not use the same form factor as the new TV. Will the new TV be able to mount easily on the old TV? Will you have to do some odd hinging where the old TV and the new TV are attached to each other so that when you turn the new TV, it won't fall off? The old TV may have hardware that you cannot connect to the new TV. For example, in the case of your old TV/software: will the new TV have a Firewire port or an audio jack? Without such a port or jack
