Business owners have told the ABC their businesses have already faced a dip in sales as well as higher costs following the result of the election. The Barnett government won the election in a landslide, which many observers have described as an anti-business vote. The new government has promised to roll back some of the changes the previous government made to the WA Fair Work Act. The WA business community has also expressed concern about legislation the new government is planning to introduce to regulate gambling. But WA shire and business association CEO, Tony Nairn, says the West Australian is not worried. "The great challenge is, in the six months to a year, the Labor Party will have a number of bills on the notice paper and the Government will have its corresponding legislation," Mr Nairn said. "Now we need to deal with the real stuff, so the focus will be the agenda of the Government and any new legislation." The West Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry has welcomed the election result, saying the West Australian will be the most competitive place to do business in the nation. "[A] Labor Government will play a significant role in ensuring Western Australia remains the most competitive region for business," the state chamber's CEO, Brian Howe, said in a statement. "I would like to acknowledge the support shown by the business community to the new Labor team in all parties and for all our candidates,"

I also had a challenging month of pain and cancer and have had 4 surgeries and 18 weeks of recovery. But I continue to work on a daily basis. I am now managing a temporary job for the summer, will continue that for my next project and hopefully hold down a full time position after. I currently am making $12k. Given that at the end of the year I will be saving $10k monthly, the math should dictate that I should take up at least $17k. So, I am looking for about a 1% increase. I'm also open to taking it down to just $17k if you want. My only major requests right now is a volunteer advisor position to help with identification to the grant stipend and free rent for housing. I have about 10-12 hours free per week to work on this project. I currently have weekly meetups on Wednesday nights, as well as spending some time on Wednesday nights in the library reading and discussing with others. As noted above, I am mobile developer and have been since 2002. I develop web apps and mobile apps, as well as backend services. I'm also currently seeking another permanent position after this. So I am willing to relocate. I've worked in the Bay Area, Seattle, and Boston in the past. If this sounds interesting at all, please send me an email at jesse
